A MONUMENT OF ENTERPRISE. Julius Lansburgh's New Carpet and Uphol-

Among the signs of enterprise among our business men there is none more striking than the newly-accord and newly-accorded establishment of Julius Lausburgh, the carpet man, at No. 315 Seventh street. Mr. Lausburgh, finding that his increasing business could not be accommodated in its old store on the square player, looked about for a new leastless and tect McGill, and is especially adapted to the needs of a large business establishment. It is 105 feet deep by 21 feet wide, and, while great taste was displayed in ornamenting, great good sense was shown in making it most tuisstantial in every respect. It has four stories and a basement, and the front is consplened for its beauty. Throughout the building has been most handsomely finished. Each of the three floors used as salesrooms is lighted by six tiers of gas burners. The broad staircase leading from the main floor is claborately carved, and on either side is a newel post with four globes. The basement is devoied to the storing and sale of oil-cloths, lineleums storing and sale of oil-cloths, lineleums. storing and sale of oll-cloths, linoleums and mattings. The first or main floor is devoted to carpets—extra supers three-ply, venetian hall and stair carpets, and upholstering goods. The second floor is given up to the sale of fine carpets, body brushels repairs because hydrogen Buls, tapestry brussels, volvets, axminsters and moquettes and lace curtains. Mr. Lansburgh delphia. has introduced some departments in his business, one of which is the sale of paylor furniture fucluding marble-top tables, wicker-back fur-niture, pier mantels and mantel mirrors. The immense salesroom on the third floor is give up to this department. On the third floor is the work-rooms, where Mr. Laosburgh has omployed twenty four artisans designing interior decorations, making and covering furniture, Jambroquins and cornices and cornice-poics.

These workmen upbeister only in hair. An slovator connects the different departments, and one cannot go through the establishment without being impressed by the perfection reached in every detail.

"Democratic journals in this city for weeks past have fluig insult after insult in the faces of vectoms solidiers by their sneering remarks that the surface, the bounty jumper, the hospital bummer and new of that lik composed the great mass of the republican solidiers who will vote for Haucock; they also would lead the casual reader to boliave that the height of soldiers to the democratic camp is only equaled by the migration of nations when these warlike nations appeared upon the borders of Italy, accompanied with not only their rude possessions in portable wealth, but also their wives and children.

This is a magnificent view of the situation from a democratic standpoint, but they will not lave to wait until the ites of November to learn that it is a dissolving view. No, sire to learn that it is a dissolving view. No, sire to learn that it is a dissolving view. No, sire to soldiers who fought under McClellan, and idolized him, too, as a coursele, buried him forever beneath their ballots in 1884, so will those same coldiers—the veterans of Grant, of Sherman, of Sherdian, of Oid Pap Thomas those same soldiers—the veterans of Grant, of on G street in the order named, right resting children.

IRISH-AMERICAN REPUBLICANS. The Association to Take Part in the Demonstration To-night.

The executive committee of the Irish-American Republican club of the District of Columbia held a meeting last night at Cosmopolitan hall, with Colonel E. P. Rankin in the chair, and Judge P. E. O'Connor secretary. The chair stated that the object of the meeting was to decide whether the association should turn out in the Garfield and Arthur procession as an organization, or the members parade in the different state organizations to which they belong. Major Dillon, in a few remarks, said that the vast majority of the association were members of state associations, and a good many of the Irish-American organizations were officers of these different associa-tions, and consequently could not well leave those clubs to participate in the parade as dis-

A Magnificent Wedding at the Synagogue Last Evening.

The Jewish synagogue on Eighth street was crowded last night on the occasion of the marriage of Miss Fannie Resemberg of this city and Mr. Alexander T. Hoffheimer of Norfolk, Va. The church had been tastefully decorated with flowers and overgreens, and immediately over the altar a large marriage bell of white carnations was suspended. Panetually at 6 o'clock the bridal party entered the church, the choir rendering an appropriate selection. The bride was escorted by her father, Mr. Louis Rosenberg, the mother of the groom ecting in a similar espacity for him, the immediate relations of the parties and six ushers winding up the bridal procession. The ushers were Messrs. Joseph Strasburger, D. FALLS CHURCH, VA., August 18, 1880.

Republican Rally at Falls Church.

The republican meeting at this place list night was gratifying in the highest degree to the members of the Garfield and Arthur club, under whose auspices it was held. Long before the hour of the meeting the roads were alive with people who in goodly numbers were wending their way to Thompson's hall, the argest and most commodious hall in the vil-age, which was seen thronged with stalwar republicans. Quite a number of ladies graced the meeting by their presence and added to the interest of the occasion. This is a new feature in public meetings here, and as far as the copublicans are concerned nothing far as the republicans are concerned nothing will be ever said or done to mar the pleasure of the ladies or detract from the propriety of their attendance. The torchight procession attracted attention, and a small field-piece added to the noise and pleasure excitement of the evening. Mr. De Putron presided and in a neat address introduced the speaker, Mr. A. J. Cory of Ohio, who in an element programmer portravel the who in an elequent manner portrayed the record of the democracy, its shortcomings, its treachery, finally ending in open rebel-lion. He dwelt on the sacrifices made by the lion. He dwelt on the sacrifices made by the people and the party which saved the union. He set forth an array of facts and figures to show how the people under republican rule had become presperous and happy, and how suicidal it would be to hand the country over to the party of force, fraud and oppression. Mr. Joseph M. Wilson of Pennsylvania in a calm and forcible speech set forth the duties of the hour, the sacredness of the cause, drawing from the devotion of good and great men who have gone before lessons of inspiration to follow where they have led in the cause of liberty. There is no feeling of batred to the south. We would that our "wayward sisters" were as happy, as prosperous and as free 25 as bappy, as prosperous and as free as we are at the north. The republican party is a party of pence, the friend of industry, the protector of education, the guardian of liberty, the loop of the oppressed and the bulwark of freedom. It was the general impression that Hancock, who will be known in political history as "Fuss and Feathers No. 2," will be laid out as completely on the first Tucsday of next November as "Fuss and Feathers No. 1" was twenty-eight years ago. Campaign songs were suig, and the meeting closed with three cheers for Garfield and Arthur after resolving to meet on Tuesday night, the 31st
